THE PATTONS ARE COMING AGAIN

Two years ago, The Lowell Patton Trio, announced as the musical attraction on the opening day of the coming Chautauqua, was featured over the same circuit of towns by the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, and it is due to an almost universal request for their return that they are being scheduled in this territory this fall, it is announced.

Lowell Patton and his artists—Edward Qualen, baritone, and Johann Qualen, pianist—present something entirely new, unique and original in what has been aptly called a "Futuristic Musical Program." There is no other entertainment like it and there is no program of recent years anywhere in the Chautauqua field that has so thoroughly won the unstinted approval of an entertainment-loving public. Mr. Patton and his associates come from Portland, Oregon.

Lowell Patton dramatic interpreter, composer and pianist, is a well-known artist of the west coast country. When eight years of age he was studying piano and singing in the celebrated Boys' Choir of the Trinity Church in Portland. At fifteen he was organist of the Pilgrims' Congregational Church of that city, and began to teach piano and organ. Three years later he was organist at the Taylor Street Methodist, one of Portland's largest churches, and at nineteen he held the same position in the First M. E. Church. He was organizer of the Portland Philharmonic Trio.

He was chosen as pianist with the famous Flying Squadron a few years ago, playing in every principal city in the United States. As a "gob" during the war he was chosen song leader at Bremen Navy Yard, where his work was phenomenally successful. He appeared with many organizations, such as the Royal Purple Orchestra of Portland, was a accompanist for Frances Soule, harpist, and later with Frances Ingram. January, 1923, found him in London and Paris, for additional study and new material for his company.

He is gaining for himself a wide recognition as a composer and three of his songs have just been published. They are "Pearls," "Sea Pirate's Lullaby," and "A Tendle Thought." Several of these numbers are used on the program.

There is a stop and action in the highlight program offered by Mr. Patton and his talented associates.

Costumes are worn in the various "episodes" of the program. The costumes and shapes were created by Madam Beau of San Francisco, a leading costume designer of the west.

Lowell Patton has achieved success and has gained for himself an enviable reputation not only in the United States, but in Canada, New Zealand, England and France, because of his thorough musicianship, originality and refreshing personality. He is a pianist of real achievement. The program he offers is high class and worthwhile in every particular, yet one which has a wide popular appeal.

Edward Walton of Auburn, who was sentenced at the recent term of court to sixty days in the county jail for driving while intoxicated, was released after serving eight days. His release was ordered by the attorney general, after five physicians had given testimony regarding the condition of Mr. Walton's health.

Gould Academy Notes

The honor roll has been posted for the first six weeks and the following have maintained an average rank of over 90%: Rebecca Carter, Elton Glover, James Alger, June Brown, Katherine Carter, Frances King, Emil Johnson, Barbara Herrick, Kathryn Herrick, Catherine Lyon, Mark Hamlin, Richard Stevens.

Those having an average rank of 90% in all but one subject and 85% in another, are: Margaret Carter, Howard Brooks, Ruby Knapp, Ruth Briar, Esther Burris, Evelyn Whitman.

A very interesting program of delegations was enjoyed in the assembly hall of Gould Academy Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. A musical selection was rendered by Kathryn Herrick on the piano and Addison Saunders and Daniel Wight, violinists.

Friends and parents of the pupils are cordially invited to attend these interesting programs.

BASKETBALL

Basketball practice started last Thursday night with twenty-one players reporting. Coach Anderson stressed many important phases of the game and cut the squad to fifteen men. Captain elect Willard Holmes and Chesebro are rounding into form again and a great deal of anxiety is being shown for a position on the regular five. The team has a great deal of work to do with only sixteen more practices before the first game. The schedule to date is as follows:

Dec. 7, Bryant's Pond at Bethel; Dec. 14, Bridgton H. S. at Bethel; Dec. 20, Berlin H. S. at Bethel; Jan. 11, South Portland H. S. at Bethel; Jan. 18, Norway H. S. at Norway; Jan. 25, Mexico H. S. at Mexico; Feb. 1, Lewiston H. S. at Bethel (pending).

Feb. 8, So. Paris H. S. at So. Paris; Feb. 15, Rumford H. S. at Bethel; Mar. 1, Berlin H. S. at Berlin; Mar. 8, Bridgton H. S. at Bridgton; Mar. 15, Mexico H. S. at Bethel.

Undergraduate Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the Undergraduate Association for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year was held Oct. 31. They are as follows:

President—Carlton Holmes; Vice President—James Alger; Secretary—Helen Carter; Member of the Executive Board—Charles Freeman; Manager of Basketball—Elton Geyer; Assistant Managers Basketball—Walter Dowling, Charles Chapman, Emil Johnson; Manager Baseball—Howard Douglass.

Recitation, Oral, Drama, Music, Art, etc.

At the next regular meeting, Nov. 10, Rev. Mr. Edwards of Bethel will give a talk on Armistice Day and "World Peace."

Local Radio Users Annoyed

Radio fans in and around Bethel are reporting much annoyance from users of regenerative sets. The Public Laws passed by the 83rd Legislature last year make it unlawful to use sets which disturb other sets.

Chapter 215

An Act to Render Unlawful All Disturbances to the Reception of Radio Waves Used for Radiotelephony. See, I. It shall be unlawful to use within the state of Maine any radio receiving set which radiates radio waves, between two hundred and five hundred and fifty meters wave length, thereby causing interference with the reception of any other radio receiving set unless said radiating set shall be rebuilt or redesigned to prevent said radiation.

See, 2. Whoever knowingly, maliciously or wantonly by any means unreasonably disturbs the reception of radio waves used for radiotelephony, between two hundred and five hundred and fifty meters wave length, shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars and not more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for one month in any municipal or police court or before any trial justice.

Two Injured at No. Bethel

A locomotive straight-eight sedan driven by James D. Kaine of East Milton, Mass., crashed into a tree near the Tim Jewett place between North Bethel and Newry Corner Sunday afternoon about five o'clock. Wallace Dubuque of Hubbard, Mich., and Omer Beauchemin of Fairhaven, Mass., passengers were rushed at Bethel Hospital, where Beauchemin remained in a critical condition.

Kane and John D. Pierce, the third passenger, were taken to South Paris where Pierce is held as a witness, and Kaine was arraigned in court and his case continued until it is known whether Beauchemin will live.

It is said that the car was stolen by Kaine when parked at a church at Hingham, Mass., about 11:30 that morning and was travelling at a high rate of speed.

BEAR RIVER GRANGE

At the next regular meeting, Nov. 10, Rev. Mr. Edwards of Bethel will give a talk on Armistice Day and "World Peace."

SOUTH BETHEL SCHOOL

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1928

held a position as pastor for the joint parishes of Fairfield and Waterville, Maine. From Fairfield Mr. Barton accepted a call to the First Universalist church of Rockport.

Beloved by All.

Mr. Barton has been a faithful and beloved pastor of Rockport's First Universalist church. Last March he left his resignation but was asked by his parishioners to remain with them, which he said he would be most happy to do, with their kind assistance towards making this year the happiest one in his long life of church work.
Many times during this past year he has told his family of his great happiness in being able to serve another year and that it was indeed a happy year.

Rev. Mr. Barton possessed a friendly disposition, always seeking and finding the best in others. Within the church he will be greatly missed, as well as to the life of the community.

October 11 last, Mr. and Mrs. Barton celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Barton, formerly Frances Elizabeth Fogg of Brownfield, Me., a daughter of Mrs. Agnes, wife of Lee Haskell of Holyoke, and a son, Dr. Frank E.
Barton, survive Mr. Barton.

Every vest in the Universalist church was taken and many people stood during the funeral service.

Rev. Clark L. Paddock, of Pigeon Cove, and schaum of Rev. Mr. Barton during one of his years at theological school, opened the services, reading from the scripture and telling briefly and touchingly of his long friendship with the deceased pastor.
Rev. John Clarence Lee, D. D., of Gloucester also spoke. Rev. Lee, however, for many years, the latter having studied under Rev. Mr. Barton's father while a student at theological school. Rev. Mr. Lee told of Mr. Barton's exceptional character of his great love for his fellow man, a trait that surprised all after him.

The Brethren made a speech of thanks to the pastor during the service including "In the Garden" a favorite song of Mr. Barton's. Joseph E.
Cochet, Stephen Marston, Harry Mills and Rev. Clark L. Paddock of Auburn Lodge, and the Mason's service. Rev. Mr. Barton having been a Mason for 40 years.

SEASONABLE SNIPS

A fall of snow on Christmas day is regarded as a sign of a lucky New Year.

When the Puritans were in power in England Christmas day was kept as a solemn fast.

One man for each family was the English custom, a farce being referred to as a kiss was taken.

In the days when the Yule log was always laid before it was burnt out so that the first Christmas day the new Yule log might be lighted from the charred remains of its predecessor.

Swedish and Danish housewives bake a big cake in the form of a barrel for Christmas. It is known as the Yule Log. All through the day this sponge cake stands in the center of the room uncut. Sometimes it is left there until spring. It is referred to as a cork binger.

How They Welcomed Peace

Ten years ago, November 11, most of the civilized world forgot all other emotion except an unbounded joy at the news that an armistice had been declared in the World war. Photograph shows an informal parade gotten up by members of an American division at Bar-le-Duc, France, with the aid of the inhabitants of the town, upon receipt of the news.

Armistice day, a veteran of the World war relates, found my division in retreat at Bar-le-Duc, with my regiment in a little village in the Vosges mountains, south of Verdun, which went under the magnificient name of Grand.

First official news that the armistice had been signed was received by the mayor of this little French village and the news was quickly spread, so that all the inhabitants, consisting of a population of women and old men, were on the village streets within a few minutes.

The men of my regiment were quickly notified and almost maddened by the happy French people, the women, in particular, expressing their joy by hollering and hailing the American soldiers. Our own regimental band played the French and American national anthems and the French people danced and sang up and down the streets waving French and American flags which they secured from some unknown place.

The mayor of the village invited the officers of my regiment to drink to victory with him and all of us adjourned to the ever-present cafe, where we set up champagne in an inexhaustible supply, to which the American soldiers did full credit. The celebration continued long into the night and really lasted for several days thereafter.

A member of the division took the snapshot of the scene reproduced here.

Ten Years Ago at the Front

A decade ago Second division troops of the A. E. F. left a French rest camp for the Belgian "toed battlefront" to help repel a German offensive.

The former doughboys and leather-necks in that World war outfit held their annual reunion festivities at St. Louis last June.

Led by Col. Hartford McSider, president of the Second Division association, a half dozen generals, 100 or so colonels and majors and several thousand "top kicks," "second-lieutenants," corporals and privates, were present or accounted for when the operation got under way.

Much can be obliterated from memory in ten years, but it is doubtful if any of the Second division will have forgotten that daybreak a decade ago when the long convoy clattered out of the rest area near Chamboncourt-Vexin with themselves aboard.

Now but the officers who had seen the orders knew whether they were headed. Vague reports of the German success at Chemin des Dames had been heard, but the officers and men did not comprehend the gravity of the situation. For the second time in four years the German high command was throwing its gray-clad troops toward Paris, and all the Allied strength had been unable to stop them.

The Second division started out in gay fashion. The men cheered, sang and yelled. Then the convoy came closer to the front. They passed a long line of refugees and singing and cheering stopped. The spectacle of those thousands of terrified people, fleeing desperately from their homes, gave the men their first profound understanding of the horrors of war.

Inferno of War.

At Meaux the conflict was terrific. The city was choked with refugees, wounded men, troops and trains of every description.

North of Meaux the troops were disbursed. The Ninth Infantry started immediately on a forced march to the line and the other regiments bivouacked for the night. German bombing planes made frequent visits over the camp and there was little sleep. At daybreak, June 1, the Infantry and Marine regiments marched toward Montrouge and Levallois, reaching positions in the rear of the line through Bois de Vincennes, Berchemes and Bellevue woods that night, with nothing but a thin line of heroic French soldiers between them and the enemy.

Read to Paris blocked. June 1 the Infantry began to block the Paris highway, and the next day all the Infantry of the division was in line, with the Ninth on the right and the Marine brigade in the center. The Third Infantry, one battalion of Marines and the Fifth Machine Gun Battalion had been thrown along the line through Vincennes, Pierrefonds and Fontainebleau to reestablish liaison between the two French corps which were

AS GOOD AS HIS NEIGHBORS

Goodwin is running a little church in a country village where, if the truth be told, there are perhaps too many churches striving to put across their own particular dogmas and at the same time to maintain an existence and a semblance of influence.

"How are you getting on?" I inquired of Goodwin when we met at the club in the city. I had known him years before when he was a younger and a more energetic man.

"Oh! moderately," he said, "we don't have the interest or the enthusiasm which I should like. The membership isn't increasing as one would wish it were, and it's pretty difficult to keep our heads above the financial waters, but I suppose I should not complain or be dissatisfied, for we are quite as good as our neighbors."

I didn't tell him that to be as good as one's neighbors is often to be commonplace and ineffective, for the neighbors are not always getting on in any amazing way.

Bidder is running a store down town. There is nothing in his show windows to attract attention. If in walking down the street you should pass his place of business, you would not hesitate at his door attracted by anything more than ordinary in the display. Bidder's stock is surely as good as that of some of his neighbors; the attention you would receive if you went within would be the ordinary attention of clerks who are a little bored with their jobs and not excited by any unusual ambitions some day to be the best salesman in town. Possibly they are as good as their neighbors, but that is only faint praise at best.

World's Sourlest Substance

Vinegar is about five times more effective than lemon juice in making things sour, but a substance exists seven times more sour than vinegar. This is phosphoric acid, the active principle of the "acid phosphate" so much used in soda water flavors. This is the world's sourlest known material.

The Message of the Unknown Soldier

Nameless I lie here where patriot hands bore me from the fields of battle to my homeland, and flowers today are being gently and reverently laid by patriot hands upon the sod above me. Within the shadows of peace that now enfolds me there are many nameless ones and they walk as proudly and with glorious memories as the shades of those whose names are embossed with their deeds in monumental stones. For them is neither state nor station among the dead who died for duty, in the cause of humanity, at the call of one's country. We are of one equal brotherhood of the greatest love—for "greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Nameless I lie here, and so I know that it is not the impulses of ordinary human love, or of family ties, or of friend's bonds, that prevent the hearts of those who come today with flowers to remind us that the unknown dead have not been forgotten. The love that speaks in these remembrances, we who died for it know, is one that far transcends the natural affections that find their fullest fruition within the homes of our country. It is a love that speaks in clear, unselfish, sacrificial recognition of that greater love which, breaking all ties, has gone forth from time immemorial to pay "the last full measure of devotion" in protection of humanity's homes and in defense of humanity's homelands. It is a love that is rooted in the soil of one's native land, voiced in its patriotism, symbolized in its flag. It is typified, too, in the graves where the nameless soldiers sleep, unmemored by birth or kin, yet remembered in that transcendent love of country which they shared and for which they freely paid the tribute of their lives.

So, from the peace that pasteth the understanding of a world of strife, let our voices be heard. Let peace on earth be still the aim of councilors and statesmen, but may you never cease to cherish, with zealous watchfulness, the spirit that will stand ready, when called upon, to preserve your liberties, to make a haven for the oppressed, to keep secure the nation that protects your homes.

Lesson of Day Must

Never Be Forgotten

By resolution of congress and proclamation of the President November 11 is observed as Armistice day. While in observance the memory of those who lie in Flanders fields should have the place it fully deserves, those living who fought "over there" should be given the credit that is theirs, never to be taken from them. But above all, observance should bring to each and all of us realization of our indebtedness to both.

Too much do we Americans regard service to our country, whether on the battlefield or in public office, as our right. Under our form of government there is no right except that which we establish and maintain by our voluntary devotion to the principles for which our government stands. If some serve in our army and navy, or in public offices, others must maintain all that defensive forces and administrative organization stand for. This means better and better citizenship by all, and points our part in Armistice day observance.—Grit.

Honor Those Who Went Through Fire of War

The members of the A. E. F. went to war like crusaders in the Middle Ages, filled with a mighty zeal. They came back, those who did, with a new feeling of nationalism and greater love for their own country. When the Statue of Liberty greeted them in New York harbor and howling mobs of their own flesh and blood yelled in joyful glee over their homecoming, they got a greater glimpse of the true spirit of life. They had been through the fire and, like gold, had been tried; they had come out of it different men, but better. And these are the men who, on Armistice day, 1923, ten years removed from the atmosphere of war, have regained the great grip on themselves; have re-established themselves in the arts and sciences, the business enterprises and the professional callings of the nation. They have carried on in peace as they did in war; soldiers all.

President Wilson's Words

"The only way in which we can show our true appreciation of Armistice day is by resolving to put self-interest away and once more formulate and act upon the highest ideals and purposes of international policy. Thus and thus only can we return to the true traditions of America."

These were the concluding sentences of a radio message by Woodrow Wilson on the eve of Armistice day, 1923. It was his last formal message to the public. Three months later he died.

NORTH NEWRY

Guy Vail has moved his family to Bethel for the winter.

Arnold Eames who has employment at North Berwick, was in town calling, Sunday.

W. W. Kilgore who has spent several weeks in N. H. with relatives, returned home Thursday. Wilbur Kilgore accompanied him home for a few days of hunting.

Mrs. Catherine Hutchins of Andover attended the Harvest Supper and Dance Friday night and was an overnight guest of W. B. Wight and family, Saturday, returning home Sunday morning.

Mrs. A. O. Littlehale and Miss Martha Land of Errol, N. H., are visiting at W. B. Wight's.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ferren are entertaining friends from Worcester, Mass., who are here on a hunting trip.

About 25 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of W. B. Wight, Monday evening to help celebrate his 82nd birthday. Mr. Wight received a nice basket of apples from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett.

Frank Ferren went to Byron, Me., Sunday, where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. Knapp.

Frank Vail, Jr., was at home from Norridgewock over the week end.

L. E. Wight attended the banquet and meeting of the Oxford County members of the Legislature at Bethel Inn, Monday evening.

The Circle Supper at W. B. Wight's was well attended Saturday night. Rev. and Mrs. Robert Haldane of Errol, N. H., were present.

Services were held at the church here Sunday A. M. The subject of Mr. Haldane's sermon was "Joy".

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lord and daughter, Alzena, from Rumford spent Sunday at H. H. Morton's.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Emanuel of Bethel are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Amy Bennett of this town is caring for her.

Miss Doris Morton is spending a few days with Mrs. Haldane at Errol, N. H. A Hallowe'en entertainment was given by the Powers and Branch schools. The entertainment at the Branch was given in the afternoon. The children from the Head of the Tide and parents were guests. The Powers school gave their entertainment in the evening. Many of the parents and friends attended. A fine program was given by both schools and enjoyed by all.

The Head of the Tide school has been closed the past week on account of the severe illness of Miss Chamberlain's brother.

Miss Doris Morton is having a two weeks vacation from H. H. Hastings' law office at Bethel.

The Harvest Supper and Dance held at the Grange Hall was well attended. Miss Jeanette Bailey spent the week end with Mrs. Alter Reed, Rumford.

E. G. Brown and Lester Pratt with the State compressed air drill have been in town blasting ledges at Horse Shoe Falls.

The Circle Supper was given Saturday evening by Mrs. Abbie Littlehale of Errol, N. H., at the home of W. B. Wight, with about 50 present. Stereopticon views were shown by Rev. Robert Haldane consisting of "Charles of Maine" which were much enjoyed by all.

Miss Marguerite Quint spent the week end at H. L. Foster's, Parson River.

Francis Vail of Norridgewock spent a few days recently with his family at H. H. Morton's.

HANOVER

Mishemokwa Temple held their annual inspection Friday, November 2nd, with Mrs. Amelia Schwind of Rumford, with D. D. G. C. A bountiful dinner was served at noon by the committee, Mrs. Amy Marion, Eva Hayford and Nellie Holt. There were sixty members in attendance including visitors from Naconaluc Temple, Rumford, Naconaluc Temple, Bethel and Unity Temple, Errol, N. H.

The Hanover school under the direction of the teacher, Genie Saunders, put on a very pleasing Hallowe'en entertainment at the schoolhouse, Saturday evening, Nov. 3. Home made candy was on sale during the evening and quite a sum was realized for the benefit of the school. The following programme was given: Song by the orchestra; Recitation; "Little Old Woman"; Ruby McPherson; Selection on the Victrola; Dialogue by the first grade; Drill by the upper grades; Song by the school; Calisthenics, First and Second grades; Poem by the school; Recitation, Phillip DeRosa, Diane, Second; Third and Fourth grades, Recitation on the Victrola.

The next was a short play supposed to take place in the October Forest of Wolfe Wood. Witcher, Queen of Fairies, the ghosts, cat, witch, etc. were raised again, and more chance to be good. The girls forgot their parts with other queen. The queen goes to the doctor for advice. He advises having pictures taken of the rogues, and then sending them to the Moon. And as today all we have on Hallowe'en is pictures of ghosts, cats and witches.

The characters were Queen of Fairies, Harlowe, Mt. Owl, Herman, Bird, Goblins, Angels, Angus McPherson and Richard Brown; Pats, Chester McPherson and Chester Goddard, Witch of Midnight, Louise Brown; Cynthia, Nelly McPherson; Bee, Mary Stevens; Metal Ma, Wanetta Tibbatts; Photographer, Alpha Powers.

Members of Franklin Bear Lodge accepted an invitation to visit Norway Lodge, Thursday evening and a good time is reported by all who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrows of Gorham were guests of his sister, Mrs. Neena Silver over Seaside and Monday.

OUR OCTOBER BUSINESS

was the largest (with the single exception of December) in the history of our store

Our volume of sales during October was our largest for any single month since we have been in business (excepting December which is in a class of its own because of the Holiday business)

We are most grateful to our customers to whom we owe this splendid record. The increase in our business in October and for the whole year since we opened our new store means a great deal to us. For the volume of our sales indicates our degree of success in anticipating and meeting the needs and requirements of the great majority of the people of Maine and Northern New England:—

In making this the store to turn to for all that is new, smart and attractive; for all that meets the ideas and desires of youth; for what is attractive and to the liking of their elders; for what is sound, practical and dependable; for assortments that always insure satisfactory selections; for the lowest possible prices consistent with good quality and workmanship.

In making this a store that gives equal consideration to the wishes of those more concerned with what they want than price and to the interests of those who from choice or necessity make every penny count.

If you've been our customer, but have not traded with us lately, we believe it will pay you to try us again.

If you've never been our customer, we trust you will give us a trial; that you will like our merchandise and our values.

If you ARE our customer, we thank you and promise to do our best to continue to please you.

Carrying Education to Canadian Children

If the children cannot go to school the school must go to the children. This is the principle accepted in certain newly settled districts of northern Ontario, where regular school facilities are not yet available. A railway passenger car has been converted into a complete school room and teacher's home and is serving a district 120 miles in length. It brings education to the children of railway section men and others not in organized school districts.

Not Much Chance Involved

By RAY LEWIS

MRS. BRAYTON was tremendously disturbed. Never since Molly's babyhood days with their anxieties attendant upon scarlet fever and measles combined had she been so exercised. Molly was about to choose a husband.

Now, some girls are not in a position to choose. They must wait and be chosen. Not so with Molly. Apparently only two applicants were still in the running—Tom Hall, fairly poor, unquestionably solid, and Bates Schuyler, fairly rich, unquestionably insecure.

Some mothers would have preferred Bates. Mrs. Brayton, ranking character above prosperity alone, preferred Tom. While Molly herself—but at this point we arrive at the reason for Mrs. Brayton's disturbance, Molly apparently loved Bates. Mrs. Brayton deduced as much from a brief colloquy she had overheard. Bates had brought Molly home from the theater and Mrs. Brayton, parentally sitting up for her daughter, had unwittingly caught Bates' parting words and Molly's response as they stood together a brief moment in the hall.

"To have you say you love him, Molly, is more than any man deserves," Bates had said.

"But, remember, Bates," came Molly's whisper, "nobody knows it yet and I haven't really said 'yes'!"

With Mrs. Brayton's disappointment for herself mingled her sorrow for Tom. By Molly's own admission, she wasn't as yet irrevocably bound. Suppose it wasn't too late—suppose a removal from Bates' undeniably fascinating personality would lessen the attraction! It was worth trying.

Over their toast and grapefruit the following morning, Mrs. Brayton sprang her scheme. "We leave for Highland Lodge this afternoon, dear," she said quite casually.

Molly, a bit of toast half way to her mouth, paused in astonishment. Then she slipped the morsel between curving red lips. "Lovely, mother," she acquiesced.

While her mother was packing, Molly said good-by to Bates over the telephone and wrote to Tom, who was away on a business trip. Three hours later she and her mother were on the train.

The letter which Molly had written found Tom in a stuffy little hotel in one of the smaller cities of western state.

At the end Tom paused as if he could not believe the words he saw. Then, like a released spring, he jumped to his feet, pulled out his watch, seized his coat and was out of the door.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Brayton reminded herself frequently that if there was ever a case of out of the frying pan into the fire, she was its illustration. Bates Schuyler was bad enough, but the young man Molly annexed the third meal in the dining room at Highland Lodge was a great deal worse. His having graduated from high school with Tom Hall was not, in her eyes, sufficient pretext for allowing him to take her daughter canoeing, rowing and walking at all hours.

The day came when Mrs. Brayton decided on a bold stroke. If Molly could enjoy so greatly the companionship of a comparative stranger, her feeling for Bates could not be very deep. A word to Tom and his arrival at the right moment—again Mrs. Brayton's hopes mounted. A telegram economically expressing the situation in ten words went over the wires.

Highland Lodge was at its liveliest on the night that Tom arrived. Molly was waiting for Jack Penrod. But when he came Molly had vanished—vanished into the arms of a tall stranger, who turned as Jack approached, then held out his hand and cried, "Jack Penrod, as I live!"

And Bates, emerging shyly, held out a slim hand, too. "Mr. Penrod has helped some tedious hours pass, telling me about the things you used to do in school, Tom," she said.

Later Mrs. Brayton received the explanation which was certainly due her. "I don't see," she complained, bewildered, "how you can love Bates Schuyler and Tom Hall at the same time, Molly! I overheard you tell Bates you loved him even if you hadn't quite said 'yes'!"

For a moment Molly looked blank, incidentally so did Tom. Then she laughed joyously. "Oh, mother, I see it all! You carted me off to this place because you heard me tell Bates who had just asked me to marry him, that I couldn't because I loved another man, although I hadn't told him so yet."

"Well," said Mrs. Brayton after a moment, "so much is clear. But how did Tom finally discover that you loved him? He came here because I telegraphed."

"Not altogether," smiled Tom. "When your telegram reached me I was speeding this way. You see, before your telegram I received a letter from Molly in which she said—" he looked at Molly for permission to go on, and Molly, in spite of self-conscious blush, allowed him to continue.

"Mother is carting me off to Highland Lodge, and I'll marry the first man who comes to my rescue!" So I took no chances, but came at once!"

"There wasn't much chance involved," laughed Molly. "You were the only man to whom I wrote of my predicament!"

OBSERVATIONS

Be stubborn if you want to. But a fellow who sets his head seldom hatches out much.

These days it is useless to look to mother for pats like mother used to make. Mother is longing for them, too.

Of course, you can't tell. But the chances are the fellow who is a yes-man around the office is a yes-man at home.

WOULDN'T HELP HER TO SPOIL ILLUSION

G. H. Palin, the slogan king—Mr. Palin is the author of the famous "Safety First"—said at a dinner party at Pierre's in New York:

"The three great modern industries are the movies, the motor car and beauty making. If beauty making in its various branches—in its facial elays and nose-shaping machines and reducing instruments and dear what—well, if beauty making grows much bigger it will forge ahead even of steel."

"And yet—

"Well, a lady went into the editorial department of a magazine the other day and said:

"I wish to see the beauty editor, please."

"An elderly editor looked up at her in a grave way from his copy.

"Are you following our beauty editor's advice, madam?" he said.

"I am," she said.

"Not confident in it?"

"Perfect confidence."

"Then you don't want to see her, tell the old editor?"—Springfield Union

Science has developed a tiny broadcasting station that gives out supersonic waves, oscillating 20 times as fast as those that can be distinguished by the human ear, capable of destroying the living matter of life cells without injuring the cell walls. It is thought possible that the discovery may have an important bearing upon the medical science of the future.

What intrigues the imagination, however, is the suggestion that the so-called "death ray" may have been discovered. If a tiny broadcasting station, operating with a 75-watt tube from 110-volt alternating current, can destroy the living matter in cells, is it not possible to erect a separation capable of dealing death to whole armies?

Bethel Church School. Miss Idie Packard, superintendent. Classes for all.

We are all glad to see the increasing attendance and interest. Let us keep up the good work.

MORNING WORSHIP. How vividly we recall the 11th of November, 1918. We believed that "The War to End War" had fought its last battle.

But we then believed that we had nothing further to do! Did we believe that the Utopia of our dreams, Universal Peace, would follow naturally in the wake of the greatest war the world had ever known? If disappointment has come to us in this matter, Why?

Does "Might make Right," or does Right make Might? There are questions that we on this day should seriously consider.

Plans are under way for a Union service on Sunday evening, which we hope will be under the guidance of our Chautauqua friends; but in any event we shall hold the service. Place of meeting, with full notices will be given in the churches Sunday morning.

On account of the Union Service the meeting of the Comrades of the Way will be omitted.

The Ladies Club will meet on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Doris Lord.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday school meets 9:45 Sunday morning.

PREACHING SERVICE Sunday morning 10:45. Sermon topic, "The Man Who Held Himself Down." Are we masters of our destiny?

The Epworth League meets Sunday evening 6:30. Topic, "Friendship or Worships." Leader, Elmer Wheeler.

At 7:30 P. M. there will be a Union Service. The Chautauqua will be in town over Sunday and will doubtless come to our aid in making this a great service. The place of this service will be announced Sunday morning, or by the Chautauqua the last part of this week.

The Class Meeting next Tuesday evening 7:30.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

Chapman Street

Services Sunday morning at 10:45, Subject of the lesson sermon, Adam and Fallen Man.

Sunday School at 10 o'clock. Wednesday testimonial meeting at 7:30 P. M.

Oxford County United Parish

Embracing Albany, North Lovell, Stoneham and the Waterford. Pastoral Staff: Revs. W. J. Bell, B. F. Wentworth, A. G. Townsend.

Last Sunday the Staff cooperated with the Norway and South Paris ministers in a general exchange of pulps. Mr. Bell preached in the South Paris Universal Church, Mr. Wentworth in the Norway Baptist and Mr. Townsend in the Norway Methodist Church. In their places Mr. Morgan preached at South Waterford, Mr. Colby at North Waterford, and Mr. Teiley at East Stoneham. At Albany the time of service has been changed to 2:30 P. M. and Mr. Townsend spoke there. Mr. Wentworth conducted the evening service at North Lovell and Mr. Bell the Young People's meeting at East Stoneham.

The moving picture, "The Iron Horse," will be shown throughout the parish this week. Some changes in the schedule will be necessary on account of the Council meeting on Thursday evening.

The Annual Meeting of the Council will be held in the Grange Hall, South Waterford, on Thursday afternoon and evening. A supper will be served by the South Waterford ladies, and the address of the evening will be by Rev. Cymrild Hughes, Superintendent of the Portland District of the Methodist Church.

Following the Council, Rev. Mr. Hughes will conduct the Annual Meeting of the South Waterford M. E. Church.

Next week, Nov. 11th, there will be shown a World Service Moving Picture entitled "From Israel to Mine and Mine to Israel." This shows life in the native villages and in the diamond mines of South Africa, and the efforts of Christian missions upon the natives as they come into contact with white industrial civilization. The rental of the film will go to the support of an African hospital, and any excess over expenses will be credited on the contributions of the United Parish church.

A silent offering will be taken at each showing. It will be shown at South Waterford Sunday evening, Nov. 11, North Waterford, Tuesday evening, Albany Thursday evening, and Sunday, Nov. 18, at East Stoneham. It will be available for the showing on Wednesday and Friday evenings.

Plans are being made for a World Service Thanksgiving to all the churches on Sunday, Nov. 25.

Knowledge Worth Seeking

Knowledge will not be acquired without pains and application. It is true labor and deep digging for pure water; but when once you come to the spring they rise up and meet you —Fellow.

Middle Age "Palmer."

In the middle ages a physician re-tured from the Holy Land and was entitled to wear a glove of palm in his hat. He was as a result, much more comfortable a physician.

The Unexpected Happens

THE gray roadster had covered mile after mile of the fine mountain roads before it took a wrong turn that brought it suddenly to a sandy road through dead woods. So narrow was the track that Melton Bush kept steadily on his way, hoping for a chance that further along there would be a place to turn around.

When he did stop, it was to gaze at a tea room at the side of this out-of-the-way mountain road—such a gay little cottage, all pine boards and yellow paint and scarlet geraniums in green boxes, that Melton stopped the roadster with a definite jerk that brought a trim-skirted girl to the front porch.

"Oh!" she uttered surprisedly.

Mr. Bush's leveled eyes surveyed her critically. "May I have something to eat?" he inquired.

She stared, and then lifted a young, scared voice.

"Soo-san!"

"Yes?" came a lovely feminine voice out of the air above the roadster, and when Melton Bush looked up he saw a charming girl stepping down from a seat built high among the hemlock branches.

As the branches swung back from her passing, the young city man was aware of the spicy fragrance of hemlock, and then, the girl was pausing beside the car.

"Wouldn't you like something to eat out of doors, here under the trees?" And when he heartily agreed, she showed him where he might wash his hands at a bench.

When he returned to the front of the cottage a small yellow table had been laid with a square of white linen and a bunch of yellow poppies in a yellow pottery jar. On thick yellow pottery plates were large baked potatoes, a fluffy omlet, fresh tomato salad, a blackberry tart, a small pitcher of thick cream, and a cup of de-lidion coffee.

"How did you evolve this magic?" inquired Melton Bush of the small girl, who stood uneasily near by.

"Miss Susan fixed—prepared—it," she said primly.

In a moment the charming Susan appeared at the door.

"Do you wish for anything more?" she inquired in her lilting voice.

"Nothing more, thank you," he said, smiling. "It has been a delicious meal, and I can only wonder how you can do busines on this lonely by-road."

She regarded him seriously. "To tell you the truth—we have been here for six weeks and you are our first customer!"

"Six weeks! Why didn't you close up and go back to town?"

She smiled merrily. "There was so little money to invest—and now that it is almost gone we cannot get back to town. My father, who was quite ill when we came here, has been so much benefited by the air."

"Who did you buy this place from?" he interrupted.

Wilbert Higgins. He led us to believe that it was on the motor highway—and the owner is that very rich Melton Bush, who owns so much land that only his agents know how much he has. You would think, wouldn't you that he was rich enough without cheating a woman out of her very livelihood?" She looked indignantly at Melton Bush, as if she really knew his name as well as she seemed to know his reputation.

As for the rich Mr. Bush, he merely paid his modest little bill, and declared he would stop the next time he came that way and have a meal.

A few days later he went to see Mr. Higgins. The agent took his turn at blushing when confronted with the yellow bungalow deal.

"You told us to get rid of all extra holdings," Mr. Bush, "he explained, and if the lady had advertised she might have attracted people."

"Buy it back from her now! Give her one thousand dollars more (for the trip and inconvenience) than she paid you for it—and get her town address for me—see?"

"Yes, sir," said Mr. Higgins quite weekly, and went to work on the property transfer at once.

Weeks afterward, Melton Bush went to the Chester Square address that William Higgins had given him. He rang the shining brass doorknob and was shown into the presence of Susan Raymond.

"Why—Mr. Bush," the girl stammered, glancing at his card. "How could I know that it was you who came to the tea room that day—and I should never have talked so foolishly, but, really, I was disengaged then."

"It was the happiest day of my life," said young Mr. Bush. "Your experience of the kinds of my agent has changed all my plans—terrible, I shall be my own agent, and at least earn my living. How is your father, Miss Raymond?"

So Melton Bush made the acquaintance of Colonel Raymond, and it was not long before he was a friend of the family, and then Susan accepted him.

The honey-moon was spent in the tiny cottage in the woods, and one day Melton said to his wife: "Susan, darling, what were you doing to the hemlock tree the first time I ever saw you?"

"I was crying," she confessed, and then her husband swore that she should never weep again. And, so far, he has kept his word.
